

A Matter of Choice

These days, one can set a personal reminder on their cell phone, or use a smart light to signal something recurring that is about to happen. Sometimes, we may not be able to do it all on our own. CareRinger involves your loved ones, friends and family to help you remember, and to provide peace of mind to everyone involved. The system is developed with custom solutions in mind, because everyone's situation could be different.

When the phone is used to check in for you, CareRinger calls you at the time of your choosing, and notifies your trusted contacts if the call is not answered. If the phone is all you have, there is no other equipment to purchase.

CareRinger works with the Internet too. As such, it supports check-ins using lot devices, equipment that works with the Internet. When the phone alone is not enough for the situation, one may consider adding one or more check-in light button, or Alexa© voice in its place, or both. This is where customization starts. We are ready to discuss your specific application to empower you.

CareRinger integrates custom solutions to business processes to add value to your business. Lately, pharmacies are offering reminder calls to their clients to help them adhere to their medication routines. There are many other win-win opportunities for organizations to better utilize their resource and to collaborate. CareRinger helps you and your partners make a difference in your service.

CareRinger offers cross-platform solutions so you are not tied to any one specific platform. Your choice.
