

We all know about Gene Hackman and his wife's death. I wish they could have been discovered earlier.

Recalling Andea Gallagher's article about Alfred [Thousand Oaks Acorn Dec 19, 2019], who makes coffee every day. He needs some attention if he does not show up at his coffee maker in the morning. A Blink© camera with its built-in sensor can be used to monitor inactivity. Putting it next to Alfred's coffee maker is the same as giving his coffee maker a dual purpose.

In another post, Mr. Banerjee, an elderly man who never reads his newspaper is paying extra to have his newspaper delivered to him in person, and to let his son know if he is not answering his doorbell.

Some years ago, I noticed the security company person always stopped by my neighbor's house to knock on her door and wondered how she could have so many accidents so often.

It's all about peace of mind. I wish they all had known about CareRinger earlier, which offers them exactly what they want.

My system is set up to watch for me from 10am to mid-night. It will call me and others only if there is no activity for 4 hours. Otherwise, any activity will trigger the system to restart and to reset the timer. It also turns on a light when the system is watching. Your requirement may be different.

CareRinger - a telephone reassurance, monitoring and reminder system. It adds to the peace of mind.

If you have not heard from your loved ones for an extended period of time, do you want to call them to check in? Is the absence of activity a cause for concern to you? If so, let's try this inactivity monitoring solution with them, so your senior adults are not left behind unnoticed.

About me: Henry is a former-telecommunications professional, now attending to the needs of elderly people. For years, he has been teaching senior-friendly technologies in his local communities. He is an inventor and Founder of CareRinger Inc., and holds patents on methods that apply to his service. He is currently a Conejo Vally Senior Volunteer Program Advisory Board member and a former commissioner for the Council on Aging in the City of Thousand Oaks ('21-'23).

CareRinger is a Dementia Friendly Organization

www.careringer.com